The UCLA Bruins introduced their adidas "LA Steel" alternate football uniforms on Nov. 1 in a game against the New Mexico Lobos. The uniforms were designed with a dark blue color scheme and white accents to represent the team's iconic colors. The new uniforms were part of the UCLA Bruins' 2014-15 Football season, which included a historic NCAA Championship run. Without a doubt, the 1995 UCLA Men's Basketball team had a remarkable season, and Bruce Stallings, the Athletic Director, was a key figure in the team's success. Bruce Stallings served UCLA in 1980 as the Director of Intercollegiate Athletics and was a mentor to many Bruin student-athletes.

Because I worked in Pauley Pavilion at the time, I got to see all of the scheduling and strategic decisions that went into making the NCAA Championship game happen. It was a real privilege to be a part of that team, and I am forever grateful for the experience.

Happy Holidays to Bruin supporters from the UCLA Athletics Compliance Office! Your continued support means the world to us.
